

Micropole: a €84.9 m turnover over nine months

Micropole, a digital services company, specialized in the fields of Business Intelligence, E-business, CRM and ERP, achieved an accumulated turnover of 84.9 million euros over the first three quarters of 2013, a drop of 4 % in relation to the 88.5 million euros reached over the same period 2012. The third quarter turnover stands at 25.5 million euros.

In a general economic climate which remains complex, the group pursues its strategy based on the development of innovative, high value-added service offers as well as on the growth of turnover realized abroad.

« It would appear that signs of economic stabilization are showing in this third quarter, although it is still difficult to anticipate mid-term business recovery. Restoring profitability remains the priority of the group, while continuing to rely on its main assets and on its international positioning », commented Christian Poyau, Micropole CEO.
